LEARNING THROUGH PLAY AT GALERIA KATOWICKA'S INTERACTIVE EXHIBITION

Newton's cradle, the Sun, planets, structures with voices from the Universe, X-ray jigsaw puzzles with a human skeleton, experiments that make all hair stand, and house mock-ups with movable elements showing energy-saving methods – over 50 interactive exhibits in a single location in the Upper-Silesian capital. Galeria Katowicka invites everyone to see an exhibition of EUGENIUSZ Science and Fun Center, which perfectly combines education and entertainment. The exhibition is open from March 7 until the end of April.

“Anyone who visits the exhibition prepared by EUGENIUSZ Science and Fun Center at Galeria Katowicka will get a chance to experiment, discover the secrets of science and simply have fun. Guests can touch, try and examine all exhibits. This smart form of entertainment is perfect for families with kids and school groups. It is a great opportunity to see that science can be a fascinating adventure,” says Dawid Prymas, Marketing and PR Director at Galeria Katowicka.

The exhibition arranged by EUGENIUSZ Science and Fun Center covers over 50 interactive exhibits in several theme zones. The PHYSICS ZONE has the Newton's cradle, a giant blower, a bicycle generator and animation movies. The COSMIC BREATH ZONE features 9 structures presenting the Sun and planets. Visitors can find out what kind of sounds each of them produces.

The ECO-HOUSE Zone includes four structures with movable elements presenting ways to save energy at home (in the kitchen, living room and bathroom) and at work. There are also five houses with various tasks and games related to eco-friendliness. The ILLUSION ZONE boasts a circle of confusion, a giant kaleidoscope, mirror writing and other kinds of illusion. When visiting the ANATOMY ZONE, guests will find anatomical models which make it easy to learn about the human body structure, and see the inside of a heart, eye, brain and lungs. They can also solve X-ray jigsaw puzzles.

The SCIENTIFIC FUN ZONE offers a dexterity game, a transparent wall for painting and logic games. The FUN ZONE for youngest kids is equipped with educational toys, cogwheel-shaped blocks with optical illusion, dexterity games and others.

The exhibition is available from March 7 until the end of April, Monday through Friday, from 9am to 6pm, and until 7pm at weekends. A single visit will take at least 60-90 minutes.

Regular tickets cost PLN 16 and the reduced fare is PLN 14. Upon presenting a receipt from any store in Galeria Katowicka, whose value is at least PLN 100, a customer will get a 30% discount. There are also tickets for groups, which include services of a guide who will present knowledge in a manner that is adjusted to the children's needs.
